

Windsor Admits Slot Machines Opened, He Got Money, Says He Did It To Expose "Gang"

Constable Robert Windsor, part-time Whitechurch township constable, told the Whitechurch township police investigation on Thursday that "Sam Minz" had opened three slot machines at Windsor's premises, in the presence of Windsor and his family, and that he had put the money, except $5 which Minz got, into his own pocket.

He maintained, however, under questioning by Commissioner V. H. Stringer and L. R. MacTavish, attorney-general's department counsel, that he didn't "need" the money, that he still had it and that he intended to turn it over to the crown. He took $53 and Minz took $5, he said.

He said that Minz had persuaded him that the county police were trying to "frame" him and that he took the money to bring on an investigation. He maintained that his previous evidence about attempts to bribe him was correct, and that he had told "Mr. Evans, former president of the Muskegman's Lake Ratepayers' Association," about the attempts to bribe him and about taking the money out of the machines. He said that he hoped that Mr. Evans would do something about it, and have an action started against those who had tried to bribe him.

Constable Windsor said that everything he had done had been in order to bring on an investigation to clear up "this mess" and expose "the gang" who had been bribing the police.

The investigation will be resumed at Newmarket police station on Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Magistrate W. N. Robinson, who presided over the Davies slot-machine case, was the first witness on Thursday.

Hear Magistrate

"Certain municipal police have come into court and haven't presented the usual confiscation order," said Magistrate Robinson. "I couldn't say whether they presented it in this case. Sometimes they would say that they would have it next week. I can't remember any case where the anti-gambling squad did not have a confiscation order and present it immediately for signature."

"Do you recall seeing the machines?" asked Mr. MacTavish. "I can't say if they were in court in this particular case," said Magistrate Robinson. "Sometimes there were pleas of guilty. Sometimes defence counsel would waive production. There was no need to bring the heavy machines upstairs."

"In connection with slot-machine prosecutions laid by York county police, has it been their practice to produce at the time of the trial an order for destruction?" asked Mr. MacTavish.

"I wouldn't be able to say," said Magistrate Robinson. "Quite frankly, I wouldn't know in several instances whether the informations were laid by township or county police."

Advised "Sit Tight"

Reeve George Leary of Whitechurch township was recalled to the stand.

"Constable Windsor has given evidence, involving the letter of Sept. 14 from Mr. MacFadden addressed to you, to the effect that he was instructed by your council not to do anything with the machines but to sit tight," said Mr. MacTavish.

"That's right," said Mr. Leary. "And not to carry out the instructions given to him by Chief Stuart," continued Mr. MacTavish.

"We figured that Chief Stuart had no jurisdiction over our police," said Mr. Leary. "If we had had a letter from Mr. Mathews saying that the magistrate had ordered this we would have taken cognizance of it. We inspected Windsor to hold the machines until he got official notice."

Mr. Leary told of a visit by himself, Deputy Reeve Lorne Evans and Constable Windsor to Toronto to see Mr. MacFadden, York county crown attorney. He said that he didn't see that Chief Stuart had any authority in the case. He said that the only one who could give an order was the magistrate. We took up several matters. We took up the matter of returns from the court. They were so vague. The returns from the Adelaide slot court gave all the particulars, but the parties were what the conviction was, the fines, and the costs."

"I take it that you would like the same practice to prevail at this court as at Adelaide St.?" asked Mr. MacTavish.

"Yes," said Mr. Leary.

Weren't Ticking Properly?

"It seems to me that you could get that information readily from the clerk of this court if you made application," said Mr. MacTavish.

Leary: "We made application some years ago. We have never been able to get it. In one case the statement showed $135 fines and costs. We learned from the constable that it was three fines, $100, $25 and $10, and we didn't know what the costs were."

MacTavish: "You would like these particulars?"
Leary: "We'd like to know what is going on in the township."

MacTavish: "What is the reason you can't get these particulars?"
Leary: "You are asking me. I wish I knew."

MacTavish: "Who makes the application?"
Leary: "I think that the former reeve took it up."

MacTavish: "You would like more information?"
Leary: "We would like to know if our constables are doing their work properly. If they are not we'd get after them."

Mr. MacTavish repeated a remark of Mr. Leary's: "Things weren't ticking properly, according to rumor. What do you mean?"

Mr. Leary: "We asked Mr. MacFadden why the different constables were so anxious to have the honor of destruction. He admitted that there could be $125 in a machine and only $25 turned in. He said that he would take that up and see that there was someone there when the machines were destroyed. It is just a matter of strict business. In this case, if the time was up for destruction, I don't see why they couldn't give an order for destruction."

MacTavish: "Did you or the council at any time give Windsor instructions to endeavor to get an order for destruction?"

Leary: "He said that he had tried. He said he couldn't get it."

Stringer: "Why not?"
Leary: "They seemed to try to evade it."

MacTavish: "Who did he go to?"
Leary: "I think he went to the clerk of the court. I don't know whether he went to Mr. Mathews or the magistrate. I doubt if he would have that privilege."

Mr. Leary said that "we thought maybe we'd be turning the machines over to the wrong person on a bluff. We would wait for an order and then all would be right."

MacTavish: "You spoke of rumor that all was not right regarding slot-machines. Have you any evidence?"

Leary: "No."

MacTavish: "Do you know any specific cases?"
Leary: "No. Rumors make you careful."

MacTavish: "Can you tell where these rumors were circulating? Who was passing them?"

Leary: "We heard the constable say 'they thought.' It makes you think the rumors might be right and we should be careful."

MacTavish: "Can you tell where these rumors were circulating? Who was passing them?"

any advice?"
Dewsbury: "No, I needed advice. I had no experience."

Stringer: "Did it not occur to you that there was an attempt to bribe Windsor?"
Dewsbury: "Oh yes."

Stringer: "If anyone was attempting to bribe Constable Windsor, that would be wrong?"
Dewsbury: "Yes."

Stringer: "Well, did you give your advice?"
Dewsbury: "I didn't give him any advice. I had no experience."

MacTavish: "Did you ever discuss this attempt to bribe with any York county constable?"
Dewsbury: "No."

MacTavish: "Did you lay the information in the Triangle service station case. 'Did Mr. Mills at that or any other time make any remarks about slot-machines?'"

Dewsbury: "Constable Windsor asked him why the county police force had left this place to the township police. As to Mr. Mills' reply, I can't swear. I can't say the exact words."

MacTavish: "What was the purpose?"
Dewsbury: "I was led to believe from Mr. Mills' answer that they were left there because they could not be taken out."

Stringer: "Can you clarify?"

MacTavish: "What was the purpose?"

Dewsbury: "I was led to believe from his answer that the county was being paid off or that there was some sort of agreement between the owners and the county police that they would be left there."

Stringer: "Where did this conversation take place?"
Dewsbury: "In Allan Mills' office."

MacTavish: "Do you know any reason why Mr. Mills should make a remark like that?"
Dewsbury: "None whatever."

MacTavish: "Do you know any evidence to support such a remark?"
Dewsbury: "It was quite obvious that they were left there. Everybody in the township knew that they were there."

MacTavish: "Did Mr. Mills at that time refer to any particular officer?"
Dewsbury: "Not by name."

MacTavish: "Did he refer to any particular police force?"
Dewsbury: "Yes, York county police force."

MacTavish: "Did you premeditated further, Pte. Dewsbury, a receipt for the Triangle slot-machine signed by Mr. Mills. He said that no attempt was made to prevail on him not to proceed with the charge. Asked about ownership of the machine, he said: 'I heard afterwards that they owned it themselves. I had thought that one of the men who owned the other machines around the country owned it.'"

Questioned further, Pte. Dewsbury said: "The same night we went to the Triangle we called at Middlebrook's and Mr. Hamilton was sitting in front of the machine. So it was no use going in. He knew us."

MacTavish: "Did you go back?"
Dewsbury: "A day or two later the provincial police, I think, went there."

After adjournment for lunch, Sgt. Thos. Wilkinson, of the Ontario provincial police, was questioned about the Middlebrook raid, and the destruction of the machine.

He said: "It was held 31 days and then destroyed in my presence. The money in it was sent to Magistrate Robinson in a money order. The metal from the machine was saved. The machine was destroyed in the basement of the parliament buildings in the presence of myself and two other officers."

MacTavish: "How was it discussed?"
Dewsbury: "Constable Windsor had been approached by someone. By Hamilton or Segal. It could have been either."

MacTavish: "What was the approach?"
Dewsbury: "He was offered money for the machines."

MacTavish: "Do you know where he was approached?"
Dewsbury: "I don't know."

MacTavish: "Did you give him any advice?"
Dewsbury: "No, I needed advice. I had no experience."

Stringer: "What about Muskegman's Lake?"
Dewsbury: "That was the day of the trial. I wasn't there."

MacTavish: "What was the disposition of the case?"
Dewsbury: "Mr. Davies took the fall for the whole thing. We were asked if that was all right."

MacTavish: "What did you say?"
Dewsbury: "Mr. Windsor was asked by Mr. Mathews. He said it was all right."

MacTavish: "Did anyone approach you, following the case, regarding the machines?"
Dewsbury: "No."

MacTavish: "Did you have any conversation with Windsor?"
Dewsbury: "Yes, about the offer made to him."

MacTavish: "Did you give him

Newmarket Will Start Works Plans In January

Newmarket town council will consider early in 1944 proposals for post-war public works.

Reeve Fred A. Lundy, who some months ago was appointed chairman of a town council post-war planning committee, following a request from the Heppburn government for municipal suggestions, told the council on Wednesday evening: "In the closing days of county council a Mr. Crowder, head of the government department having to do with post-war problems, appeared before the council. He approved of the 26 municipalities in the county consolidating their plans and presenting a brief."

"You refer to permanent improvements we would make if we had a little encouragement," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales.

"If sites are available for factories the county would like that included," said Mr. Lundy.

"You couldn't include that in the brief," said Dr. Dales.

"Is it your wish that we get up a brief?" asked Mr. Lundy.

"Yes, we will do that first thing in the new year," said Dr. Dales.

Deputy-Reeve A. D. Evans said that there were huge quantities of equipment and machinery belonging to the dominion government that, if thrown on the market after the war, would seriously affect employment.

"There are enough machine tools to last a lifetime," he said. "If they are thrown on the market what will the men who make the tools do?"

Mr. Lundy and Mr. Evans said that the county council purposed to make a county survey of industrial sites for the information of British industrialists contemplating establishing branches in this country.

Should a farmer "stay in hogs"? The Era and Express secured the following answer to this question from Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn:

"I don't think a farmer is making any mistake about keeping up hog production. There is still a fair margin of profit, barring weather and disease misfortunes. As in any other business, the inefficient operator can never get cost of production, and will be operating at a loss."

Town Sells Three Per Cent Bonds At Par, Pay For Well

The town of Newmarket will sell its Cotter St. well debentures more advantageously than the dominion government sold the fifth Victory loan.

"I am glad to announce that, subject to the approval of the council, we have made what I think is a marvellous deal," said Mr. Mathews, K.C., clerk, solicitor and treasurer, told the town council on Wednesday evening.

"We had an original debt of $36,000," said Mr. Mathews. "We have paid off part. The debenture will be $30,000 at a maximum. The dominion loan was at three percent but they had to pay a commission and had other selling expenses. The Bank of Toronto has agreed to take at par our total issue of $30,000 bearing three percent interest with no commission paid."

"The yield on our last debentures was 3.23. That was for the clerk's office purchase."

"This is not only a splendid deal, but I think Harry Lambert deserves a lot of credit."

"Both the manager and the bank deserve credit," said Councilor Frank Bowser.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said: "Harry Lambert has been a very generous public servant, both in time and talent. I think the clerk should write him. These things should be mentioned in a man's life-time, not after he's dead."

"He has taken on the chairmanship of the hospital finance committee, and he is doing a fine job," said Reeve F. A. Lundy.

"There should be credit to Mr. Mathews too for this sale," said Councilor J. L. Spillette.

WINDSOR-WHITCHURCH INVESTIGATION

Mr. Mills' office only "a moment or two" at the time of the laying of the Triangle information, and that he heard no remarks about slot-machines.

He told of helping with the Triangle raid and going to Middlebrook's the same night. "The proprietor of the machine was there, the same man who was at Constable Windsor's, Mr. Hamilton."

MacTavish: "Some witnesses have said that gossip had it that all wasn't as it should be with the slot-machine racket. Did you hear anything like that?"

Bingham: "No."

MacTavish: "The night of the raid on the Davies place did you hear any conversation between Constable Windsor and Mr. Davies?"

Bingham: "Only snatches. Davies said that they should be left there. He said it was a dirty, lousy trick."

John Hamilton, 23 Main St., Newmarket, the next witness, gave his occupation as a "phonograph operator."

MacTavish: "What does that mean?"

Hamilton: "We have some music boxes."

MacTavish: "Juke-boxes?"

Hamilton: "Yes."

MacTavish: "What do you mean by 'yes'?"

Mr. Hamilton said that he was a partner with Mr. Sigal in the business, that they operated juke-boxes, slot-machines and pin-ball machines in Newmarket and district and Toronto. He said that he had no other business. He said that they had two pin-ball machines and three slot-machines at the Davies place.

MacTavish: "Following the seizure did you have any meeting with Constable Windsor?"

Hamilton: "Once at his farm house and here at court."

MacTavish: "How long after the raid?"

Hamilton: "It may have been a week or more after the raid."

MacTavish: "Who else was present?"

Hamilton: "No one else was present. I think Bingham came in later on."

MacTavish: "Was there any liquor produced?"

Hamilton: "Not by me."

MacTavish: "By anyone else?"

Hamilton: "I don't think that there was any liquor."

MacTavish: "What was the conversation?"

Hamilton: "He wanted me to open the machines and take the money out of them."

MacTavish: "Why?"

Hamilton: "I don't know." He said that he didn't open them, and that he didn't have the keys with him.

MacTavish: "How did you get there?"

Hamilton: "I was down at the lake. Minz was there. Hosking was there. There was another man there. I think it was Watt. It was the wrong policeman?"

Signal: "No."

Stringer: "Did you meet Constable Windsor at Halse's garage?"

Signal: "Yes." Questioned, he said: "Windsor asked me at his home if I had the keys to the slot-machines. I said no, he had put me out of business. He took me up to his house and gave me a bottle of rum. He said that there were no hard feelings."

"At Ballantrae Windsor said to me that he had got even with Davies. He said that I could put the machines back in, so far as he was concerned. He said he had no prejudice against the machines. I told Mr. Davies and he said no. Mr. Davies said that some years ago Constable Windsor checked him about an over-load of milk. The case was dismissed because he didn't examine the full load. Mr. Davies said Windsor said he would get even. Mr. Davies said to me that he would have no part with slot-machines or Constable Windsor."

MacTavish: "Have you ever made any bribe, or attempted to, to a police officer?"

Signal: "No."

MacTavish: "Ever made any gift?"

Signal: "No, sir."

A. M. Mills was recalled as a witness, and was shown the receipt he had given for the Triangle slot-machine. He said that he had no receipt from the county officers who, he presumed, had taken the machine.

MacTavish: "When you gave a receipt for the machine, shouldn't you have got a receipt for it before letting it go?"

Mills: "Yes. If strict records were kept."

Mr. Mills said that he had no place to keep machines, or liquor, seized by police, and they were kept at the police station. He said that Chief Constable Sloss, Newmarket, had the key to the storage room.

MacTavish: "The crown attorney says it is your responsibility."

Mr. Mills was excused to make some inquiries about the machine for which he had given a receipt. Reeve George Leary presented returns from the Newmarket and Adelaide St. courts as exhibits.

Mr. Mills resumed his testimony: "I understand from Chief Stuart that he has that machine and another machine down at his office."

MacTavish: "That machine was removed from this building without your knowledge or consent?"

Mills: "Yes. In accordance with the usual practice."

MacTavish: "Do you think that is good practice?"

Mills: "I can see that there is room for criticism, but to have a staff here to handle all these details would be a very burdensome set-up. The chief, in undertaking to dispose of the machines, relieves me of a lot of responsibility. In summer I have to work five nights a week to midnight to keep this going. I employ a girl and am trying to keep my own practice going, too. I couldn't get satisfactory part-time help to look after these machines. These men have more experience than I have with slot-machines and liquor and I look to them for leadership."

Mr. MacTavish asked what efforts Constable Windsor had made to get a destruction order for the Davies machines.

Mills: "I don't know what the efforts consisted of. He had the form but the information wasn't complete so that it could be signed."

MacTavish: "Did you try to get the information from him?"

Mills: "I can't say. My recollection is that the magistrate said that the machines had to come back to

A DEMOCRATIC WORLD

As Christmas approaches we can all think in wider sweeps. We are prepared to recognize, for the season at least, all inhabitants of the globe as "God's children." The white races of this continent taught the Negroes whom they brought to this continent that they were "God's children." Our missionaries have told the same story to the peoples of Africa and Asia.

Let us hope that there is recognition of this truth in the peace that is to come. General Smuts fears that Britain, having expended her all in this war, may no longer be a first-class power. It would be unfortunate if Britain, that fortress of freedom, ceased to be a power without first having used her power to establish a system of world government that leaves no room for "powers," a world in which the one central authority has the dominating strength.

It would be unfortunate if the white races ceased to dominate the world without having first established a just system of world government which would assure peace and security for majorities and minorities. This talk of a world dominated by Russia, Britain and the United States is not big enough. We need to re-read Wendell Willkie's "One World." We must build on rock foundations, not on the shifting sands of national power.

WE BELIEVE IN SANTA CLAUS

We see things we don't believe in and we believe in things we have never seen. We believe in Santa Claus, though we have never seen him. He is, of course, the spirit of Christmas, and the fellow who believes in giving. He doesn't care about getting, in spite of the advertisements which suggest that refreshments should be provided for him. St. Nicholas is a popularization of the essential teaching of Christ, that happiness is to be found in giving rather than in getting.

Not only do we believe in Santa Claus, the giver, but it is evident to us that most other people believe in him. Our churches are filled with people at this season of the year, singing the old, old carols, and listening to the old, old stories. Most people believe in the teachings of Christ, most people would sooner give than receive.

Greed is a motive in this world but it is by no means a dominating motive. When people who themselves believe in St. Nicholas, Christmas and Christ, and who themselves give generously both at Christmas and throughout the year, say that acquisitiveness must always be the mainspring of our society, we are not convinced.

Some people seek "social success," some seek public approval as evidenced by election to public office, some merely want an occasional word of appreciation. Some seek the satisfaction of service, perhaps in public office, perhaps just in knitting socks for soldiers. Some may seek the success of doing something well, writing a book, or a story, or poem, painting a picture, playing hockey, making a garment, operating a machine, growing food or flowers, doing an everyday job faithfully, or saving lives and limbs with medical knowledge and surgical skill. Some seek so-called power. Prime Minister Churchill is said to live for power—he doesn't care about money. Some seek to run a business well. Once they have "made" the money, they care little what happens to it.

Some people are just plain acquisitive, largely because our homes and schools and libraries haven't been able to interest them in anything else, but much seeming acquisitiveness is just seeking after the means to social prominence, education, or other means to other success, or even the means to live and perhaps that never quite enough more which will give a sense of security.

Let's keep the institutions we have, yes, but don't let us hesitate to make idealistic changes in those institutions, in the pessimistic belief that man is a hopelessly and stupidly acquisitive creature. He wants success, appreciation, security. He wants things, but he wants them only so that he can use them or give them away, to his family, his friends, or his neighbors. The average man believes that it is better to give than to receive. He believes in St. Nicholas, the spirit of Christmas, and Christianity, the religion of giving.

Santa Makes Personal Appearance At Church

St. Nicholas was the patron, and in attendance, and Rev. Alex. B. Stein was chairman of the Christmas program at the Christian Congregational church Sunday-school on Friday evening. David Winkworth gave a "Welcome". Lawrence and Joan Curtis sang a duet, and Helen McCabe gave a recitation.

Five little girls, Carol Miller, Loretta Forhan, Myrna Brice, Mary Lou VanZant and Barbara Bennett, gave an exercise, "Christmas Stars Are Gleaming."

An exercise and chorus by the beginners' department delighted the audience. Five girls of the intermediate department, Ruth Edwards, Jean Squires, Audrey Brice, Bernice Hodgins and Dorothy Vernon, took part in a beautiful pantomime.

Beverly Saunders gave a recitation. Four boys from the primary department, Billy Black, Billy Saunders, Allen Perks and Ronald Edwards, gave a Christmas exercise.

Jimmy Moore and June Gilpin gave interesting recitations. A chorus by the primary department, "Ting the Christmas Bells," was followed by recitations by Laurie VanZant, Lois Robinson and Gladys Reynolds.

An exercise by seven girls of the primary department, Christine Black, Marion Winter, Helen Harkness, Marilyn Lee, Donna Sticklewood, Margaret Winters and Joan Harkness, was pleasing. A pageant, "The Christmas Story," concluding with a carol, under the direction of Ralph Rumball, brought the program to a close.

Santa Claus arrived on the scene and distributed bags of candy to the children. The candy was a gift from the Harmony Girls class.

KESWICK

There will be a Christmas homecoming service in the United church on Sunday morning, Dec. 28. The subject of Rev. Gordon Lapp's sermon will be "Be Thou in my heart." At the evening service Mr. Lapp will preach on "Christmas round the world."

A watch-night service will be held this year on Friday, Dec. 31, at 11.15 o'clock.

The Farm Forum group of Keswick and vicinity will hold an open night on Monday evening, Dec. 27, in the basement of the public school. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Era and Express makes a lovely Christmas gift.

RAVENSHOE

Mrs. Robt. Davidson left for North Portal, Sask., on Monday to visit her mother, Mrs. Kellington, who is ill.

Mrs. Harry Davis and son are staying with Mr. Robt. Davidson. A large crowd attended the school concert and reported a fine program. Proceeds were $39.

A surprise birthday party was given Miss Norma Perrin at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Perrin on Dec. 13, when a number of friends gathered to help her celebrate the occasion. Miss Perrin was speechless when she answered a knock at the door to find about 16 friends there.

Miss Perrin received many lovely gifts, and birthday greetings from Aurora, Hamilton and Newmarket, also from her twin brother, Norman, who is stationed in Toronto.

A pleasant evening was spent in playing games, music and singing. A dainty lunch was served and the evening was brought to a close with Christmas carols.

WINDSOR-WHITCHURCH INVESTIGATION

the court before the order could be issued."

MacTavish: "Why didn't the magistrate issue the order?"

Mills: "I suppose he had never been confronted with a similar situation."

MacTavish: "Was there any discussion?"

Mills: "The discussion was why Windsor was trying to be so obstreperous about it, why he was upsetting procedure followed in other cases and what he was going to do with the machines himself."

Recalled to the stand, Constable Windsor was asked to whom he applied for the destruction order. "Mr. Mills. We never seem to get a chance to consult the magistrate," MacTavish: "Are you suggesting that there was an attempt to prevent you reaching the magistrate?"

Windsor: "I knew there was something wrong."

MacTavish: "Did you ever give Mr. Mills the particulars re the serial number of this machine?"

Windsor: "I was never asked for them."

Stringer: "How many times did you try to get a destruction order?"

Windsor: "About two or three times."

Constable Windsor said that about a week after the trial he removed the slot-machines from his garage to his dining-room, and two days ago brought them to the inquiry.

MacTavish: "Did you tamper with them?"

Windsor: "No."

MacTavish: "Did anyone to your knowledge?"

Constable Windsor said that he would like advice before answering the question.

"Answer the question," insisted Commissioner Stringer.

Windsor: "Yes."

Constable Windsor said that Sam Minz, "in the same business as Mr. Sieral," opened the machines, two in the garage, with a key, and the third one, later on, in the dining-room, he broke open.

Constable Windsor said that he, his wife and "quite likely my children" were present on the first occasion. He said that Minz asked him to "release his pin-ball machines and I would not. He said you know I have had pin-ball machines around Musselman's Lake and there has been no trouble."

Windsor: "He unlocked two machines. He was unable to unlock the other. He took money from them."

MacTavish: "How much?"

Windsor: "I think about $40."

MacTavish: "Did he take it away with him?"

Windsor: "No, sir. He may have got $5."

MacTavish: "You got the balance?"

Windsor: "Yes."

MacTavish: "What did you do with the $35?"

Windsor: "I kept it. Mr. Minz was supposed to call for it. He never did. I gave it to Hosking. I didn't need the money."

Questioned further, Constable Windsor said: "Mr. Minz told me that I was being framed by Chief Constable Stuart right from the start, which I believed I was."

Stringer: "Was this before or after the trial?"

Windsor: "I don't recall."

Stringer: "Those machines were the property of the crown. What right did he have to open the machines?"

Windsor: "None whatever."

Questioned as to why he permitted opening the machines, Constable Windsor said: "To find out how many was in the gang. I knew this would be cleaned up eventually."

Stringer: "How were you going to find out about a gang by doing things that were highly improper? Did you have a weak moment?"

Windsor: "I don't think I had."

War

WILL CARRY ON... and so must we!

"WAR never takes a holiday, even at Christmas.

"There will be thousands of vital war calls to put through. And our soldiers, sailors and airmen will be calling home from all over the country.

"I'm glad to do my share, but I need your help. Please relieve the Long Distance load by mailing your Christmas greetings... and doing it early. If you find you must make a Christmas call to out-of-town relatives, try to do so as many days before the holiday as possible. And especially avoid 'long haul' calls to far distant places.

"We shall be very grateful for your co-operation, and so will the men and women who will be at their posts in war plants and military camps throughout the Dominion."

GREETINGS AND BEST WISHES

More than any other people on earth the Canadian people have much to be thankful for this Christmas Day. On this beloved anniversary we can proclaim our loyalty to the standards of our land — written down by great citizens of the past for all posterity, inspired by the teachings of the great Saviour whose birth we celebrate. Those are the standards of liberty, equality and unselfishness, by which we can forever live in happiness... for which we are fighting now, against the powerful forces of greed, tyranny and hate.

It is our faith in true concepts and in HIM who invested them in us, that will lead us to triumph...

The correct answers were: valuation, investment, colored, perfect, circulation, finder, violin, calibre, electricity, sensation.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST

Five double passes will be given to the winners of this week's contest. They will be guests of the Strand theatre on Tuesday, Jan. 4, when "Stage Door Canteen," in which there are 48 stars and six great bands, is the feature, or on Thursday, Jan. 6, when "Journey for Margaret," starring Robert Young and Laraine Day, and "Baby Face Morgan" are on the program.

Answers must reach The Era and Express by Tuesday morning at 9:30. The answers must be in the contestant's own handwriting and only one entry will be accepted from any one family or household.

CHRISTADELPHIANS

The Bible reveals that the birth of the Lord Jesus was a focal point in the divine plan of redemption, which commenced in Eden, and extended to and receives its completion in the establishment of His father's kingdom on earth at His return. A lowlier birth than our Saviour's at His first appearing would be impossible to imagine. Christ, the highest, began the humblest, but at His return “All things shall fall down before him. All nations shall serve him.” Psa. 72, Acts 2, 31, ch. 3: 19, 20, Matt. 2: 5, 6, Luke 2: 16.

Read “CHRISTENDOM AS TRAY” in all public libraries or from HOWARD TOOLE, MT. ALBERT, or THOMAS BRIGGS, PEPPERLAW, R. R. 2.

CHRISTMAS TREE

By GOLDEN GLOW
A voice over the phone this lovely winter morning asked me if I was putting the “recipe” for Christmas tree decorations in the paper as usual. So here I am! She said she had it somewhere but just couldn't locate it! I failed to ask was it Christmas tree snow or the Christmas bouquet, so I'll give both.

For a Christmas bouquet you dip small twigs and branches of any kind of shrub, lilac etc., in heavy starch and sprinkle with artificial snow. Some make little rosettes and twists of colored tissue paper and glue them on as well.

To make Christmas tree snow, make a pan of heavy soap-suds by using two scant cups of water to a large box of Lux flakes and spread by handfulls on the branches. It also helps to keep your Christmas tree fresh longer. For extra glamor sprinkle over the suds a box of artificial snow.

Everybody is so busy that I have been as brief as possible and hope it answers the question. But just one thing more, if you have a place out-of-doors where you can keep your Christmas tree for a while, why not make a birds' nest tree out of it. The chunks of suds high up so the dogs can't reach it and you will have plenty of bird-friends who will thank you all winter. I think we can surely spare the birds a bit of suds or a marrow bone apart from our war effort.

Still a few days left—and oh what a lot still to be done. What a mad, glad rush this Christmas business is to be sure. Jolly old St. Nick must be the busiest of all—his turn comes next! You can almost hear him puffing as he stops long enough to tell Mrs. Santa Claus about some extra nice toys he has just packed in his Christmas sack ready for his annual trip.

LUKE HOLMAN WAS SPORTS ENTHUSIAST

One of Aurora's best known residents, Luke Holman, Centre St., died suddenly on Friday evening.

Mr. Holman was born in Lancashire, England, and came to Canada with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holman. With the exception of a few years spent on Manitoulin Island, Mr. Holman spent most of his life in the Aurora district.

For some years Mr. Holman farmed at "the Pinnacle," and for over 25 years was employed as a foreman with J. Fleury Ltd. and later Fleury-Bissell. The past few years he had been employed at the Aurora Ordnance Depot, retiring a few months ago.

Fond of sports, Mr. Holman was the founder of the Aurora horse-shoe club some years ago. The club functioned in the town park. He was also a great Fleury plant.

In politics, Mr. Holman was a Conservative. He was a member of Aurora Baptist church.

Although suffering from a heart ailment for some years, he lived an active life and his death came as a shock to the community.

Surviving are his widow, the former Ida Hardwick, one daughter, Mary, Aurora, and five sons, Joseph, John, Herbert and Leonard, Aurora, and Percy, Toronto. Three sisters, Mrs. William Robinson, Newtonbrook, Mrs. George Lait, San Jose, Cal., and Mrs. G. Smith, Toronto, also survive.

Rev. A. R. Park conducted the funeral service at his late residence on Monday. Interment was at Aurora cemetery.

The pallbearers were Deputy-Reeve C. E. Sparks, Fred Avis, Joseph Mitchell, Gordon Phillips, Chief Constable Fisher Dunham and Arthur Stephenson.

WITH THE CHURCHES

Rev. Hubert Cook, secretary of the Evangelical Union of South America, was the guest speaker on Sunday at Aurora Gospel church.

Town Faces Higher Mill
Rate, Council Finds $9,000
Frontage Taxes Misspent

Clerk and Treasurer A. C. A. Willis broke some "bad news" to Aurora town council last Wednesday evening.

Mr. Willis explained to the council that the town would have to put up $9,000 in 1944, as the final payment on pavement debentures which property-owners had been paying in previous years.

The property-owners have made their 15 payments on the debentures, but the town has made only 14 payments to the debenture-holders, Mr. Willis explained.

The frontage taxes were levied in advance. The by-law was passed in December, 1928, the first levy was made in 1929, and the first payment in 1930, Mr. Willis believed.

"It may mean extra taxes next year," said Councillor Ross Linton.

"Apparently that first $9,000 went into general funds 15 years ago," said Councillor Dr. G. A. C. Guntion.

"They must have been short of money that year," commented Mayor Frank Underhill.

"They wanted to keep the tax rate down," suggested Councillor A. A. Cook.

"That's crazy, keeping down the tax rate when you are not keeping it down," said Mayor Underhill.

Reeve C. A. Malloy thought that a series of unbalanced budgets, together with the prelevying of the frontage rates, could bring about the situation with which the council found itself confronted, namely 15 levies collected, 14 payments made, and no money ear-marked to make the 15th payment to the debenture-holders.

"I don't think next year's council can get by without increasing the mill rate," said Councillor Dr. G. A. C. Guntion. "The school board will need some money for a new school."

"Not until after the war," said Mayor Underhill.

"It's a fire trap," said Dr.

Guntion. "It would cost $500 or $600 for fire-escapes," said Mayor Underhill. "The board doesn't want to ask the council for the money."

"The life of a child is worth $500 or $600," said Councillor Guntion.

"The tax rate should have been raised two mills ten years ago," said Mayor Underhill.

"And it would be going down now," said Councillor Cook.

"They have been telling the people that when the debentures are paid off the rates will go down," said Mayor Underhill. "But repairs will be necessary. Sewers and pavements will need more and more attention."

"We should pay off these obligations now," said Councillor Cook. "We should levy money now while there is money, and not wait for a depression."

Dr. Guntion thought that assessments should be equalized. Reeve Malloy thought that that would not help. "If the assessment is up, and the rate down, you pay just the same," he said. "A council that wanted to stay in only one year could equalize the assessment," said Mayor Underhill. "Those whose assessments were lowered would be pleased, and those whose assessments were raised would be displeased."

"We are in the same position as all governments," he continued, in philosophic vein. "The reason that governments don't govern fairly is because the people they govern won't let them."

"We have thousands of our finest boys overseas fighting for democracy, yet we are going against democracy all the time. People want no county council. Then they will want no municipal council. They would centralize until you get dictatorship."

As a mill on the tax rate raises about $1,600, Councillor Cook suggested that the town needed about a 48-mill rate next year instead of the present 40-mill rate.

King Township Pays $230
Bounties For 46 Foxes

Archie Campbell heads the list of King township hunters for foxes killed. Mr. Campbell received a total of $40 in bounties from the township council at a meeting on Dec. 15. He had eight foxes to his credit.

A total of $230 for 46 foxes killed in the township was ordered paid at the council meeting.

A resolution, asking that the department of game and fisheries not grant the request of the Provincial Hunters Association for a new system of hunting licenses and fees was passed by the council. It was felt by the council that the proposals would be detrimental to rural municipalities.

HONOR WORKER

CHRISTMAS PARTIES

By GOLDEN GLOW

We have always regarded Christmas as lasting at least a week—from Christmas eve to the day after New Year's at the very least. Of course, there are those who think if we keep Christmas day and New Year's day it is quite enough, while others extend the glad festive time to "Twelfth Night"—when, according to old time tradition, all the Christmas decorations should be burned.

In those old days, they decorated with evergreen, mistletoe and holly—where now, we have every last thing invented that sparkles and glows and shines! Naturally we do not burn them!

And when there is a Christmas party we all like to have gay Christmas decorations. If we may not have our beautiful out-of-doors Christmas trees we can have one inside, and for a short time each evening, we can have them lighted. But the lavish all-night lighting of Christmas trees is now but a memory!

However, the old Christmas parties for the children should be as gay as ever, for we had to "use discretion" in other days just as we do now, for if we overdo children's entertainment in any way we only upset them for them and spoil their enjoyment of the festive season.

The simple old games, if not overdone through the year, will satisfy them. The old game of fruit-basket, and the lively one of stage-coach always please them, and neither are too strenuous for the grown-ups. If you do not mind a bit of "rough-house," blind man's buff will answer, but you can have them under better control if you have buffy-in-the-ring.

But honestly, modern homes and apartments, scarcely lend themselves to indoor games, but we still have our parish halls at the different churches, and the Christmas party is always looked forward to by every child who attends Sunday-school.

The day schools always mark the occasion and the children, under the guidance and supervision of their teachers, have grand Christmas parties. If you think back a bit, you can recall plenty of old games you used to play and which may be new to the little ones: chair-dance, the dragon's head, I spy, earth, air, fire and water, geography class or "I love my love" with an a or b or c, etc., and be sure if you have anyone to play for you—to whistle or to sing—finish up with the good old standby, Sir Roger de Coverley.

THE COMMON ROUND

By ISABEL INGLIS COLVILLE

CHRISTMAS

Through the blackness of war, hatred, sorrow and suffering, the lovely reality and true significance of Christmas runs like a luminous thread.

To the fox-holes and trenches, where men lie facing death, will come the thought of the Babe, born in a manger, who too looked on death and faced it in its most dreadful form, to bring into the world the ideals for which they too are suffering.

Above the din of battle will sound, in the ears of those who love Christmas, the bells in the churches at home proclaiming "Joy to the world, the Lord has come," and they will know that BECAUSE of their willingness to face the terrors of war that joy will live again in the world.

Stronger than the smell of gun-powder will be the never-to-be-forgotten scent of the Christmas trees that they can see in memory, as clearly as if they were beside them.

And those boys will know that round the trees at home their names will be spoken tenderly, and that in the years to come, Christmas will come again to children who have lost it for the war years.

And when the battles are all fought and the Victory won, what better words can adorn the banners of peace than those the angels sang on that night of nights, when Christ was born in Bethlehem.

And now, I can only, to editors and staff of The Era and Express and to the readers of this column, echo Tiny Tim's immortal words "God bless us, everyone."

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT IS DOING GRAND JOB, VOLUNTEER WORKER TELLS NEWMARKET

The post office department and the North York representative, Postmaster-General W. P. Mulock, are doing a wonderful job for the Canadian soldiers overseas. Mrs. Ernest Weeks, Ottawa, volunteer representative of the post office department, told representatives of a number of Newmarket organizations in the council chamber on Thursday evening.

"We are always ready to learn in Newmarket, and we don't consider that we are very far behind in the march of progress," Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales said in introducing Mrs. Weeks.

"I feel that we can do a job for the boys overseas and for ourselves as taxpayers by seeing that there is a minimum of delay in mail going overseas," Mrs. Weeks told her audience.

"The base post office is doing a magnificent job. The volume of mail going through the base post office is beyond belief.

"There were 21,000 parcels sent to the repair department last year. The repair department was able to repair and save 20,000 parcels. There are some parcels that they can't save. Some of these parcels drip with fruit juices and broken glass. Shoe boxes are used and are too light. They break at the seams.

"Molasses, jams, etc., won't travel in wax containers. We might take a chance in our own parcel, but we are jeopardizing other people's parcels. The liquids which come through spoil someone else's parcel.

"As for chickens and hams, most of them have long beards by the time they reach the base post office. You can't send liquor or fresh fruit.

"Our postmaster-general has invited us to send gift parcels at the low rate of 12 cents a pound. Therefore it is not fair to send anything, say silk stockings, intended for someone who has been kind to the soldiers. The British government has given the soldiers the privilege of receiving these parcels duty free.

"Those sending parcels must not send inflammables. Many of us were sorry to hear of a fire at the seahoard last year at Christmas time, destroying more parcels than were lost by enemy action in a whole year. Lighter flints should be sent separately, not in the lighter.

"There are more planes going over than coming back. They are bucking head winds. They carry more fuel over and bring the men who took planes over back. That is why blue air-mail letters do not come back as fast as they go over.

"There are between 15,000 to 17,000 airgraph letters going overseas daily. Seventeen hundred letters go on a three and a half ounce film. If the weather spoils a film, a duplicate film is sent over. So it is sure to get there.

"The Germans don't want the men to get letters. The less letters they get, the lower their morale, and the easier it is to fight them.

"There were 11,753 improperly addressed parcels in the first 27 days of November. Forms are sent out to get correct addresses and in most cases they come back, showing that it was carelessness. As a result the boys don't get their parcels in time for Christmas.

"If we write fully about changes in our lives, details of rationing, new friends, etc., they will understand and see it in a proper perspective if a complaint creeps in. Complaining letters contribute to mental breakdowns.

"Our postmaster-general once said to me that the mail to our boys from home is the munition of morale. I think that is a very wonderful statement. The postmaster-general has a very big and important job and he is doing it magnificently."

WE MUST HOLD THE LINE!

On the home front the battle against inflation is now the most critical of all.

The winning of this battle will contribute much to winning the war.

It will contribute more than all else towards the solution of post-war problems.

The purpose of Price Control is to prevent inflation. Its purpose is to protect and maintain a basic standard of living.

A higher money income will not be of any advantage if, because prices are going up, our money buys less and less.

To win the battle against unemployment in the post-war period, we must first of all win the battle against inflation.

Salaries and wages are a large element, often the largest element, in the cost of everything we buy.

If the Price Ceiling breaks down, in the long run all stand to lose.

We must hold the line against inflation to assure victory in war.

We must hold the line to provide a solid foundation on which, after the war, to build a greater and a better Canada.

Henry Cotton was the chairman.

gram for the evening. The pri-

Wendell and Taylor Gilbert entertained with two piano duets and Jean Lewis gave a recitation.
Patsy Dunn and Noreen Walker

A quartette from Miss Jean

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era and Express:
After being absent from our township nomination meeting for a few years on account of ill-health, I was indeed very glad to be able once more this year to be present.

I was asked by the chairman to make a few remarks, but not feeling equal to the nervous strain, I had to decline. But now, in the quiet of my home I thought I might indulge in a few reminis-cences of the old-time hectic municipal election contests.

I became interested in the elections at a very early age, for the reason that my father was for a number of years a member of the council, first as councillor and then for 11 years as reeve. In fact, I was only ten years of age when he was elected reeve.

I am now nearing my 85th birthday, so, for 75 years I have, with very few exceptions, attended all the nominations and taken part in the elections and in middle life was honored by being for four consecutive years elected as a councillor.

The following is a partial list of the prominent men of those old times who were candidates for the council: Henry Draper, John Fairbairn, Hiram Moore, M. Sprague,
W. B. Terry, David Willoughby,
Joshua Willoughby, John Purdy, Elijah Prosser, Thomas Glover, grandfather or great-grandfather of our present deputy-reeve, Harold Glover.

There were exciting times at the nomination meetings. The candidates would speak back and forth several times.

But it was on the election day that the excitement was at fever heat. There was a very limited franchise in those early days.
Only men who were either owners or tenants could vote. Even if the women were the owners of the farm
they could not vote.

There were only about 400 voters in the township, quite a contrast to the list now, which numbers about 3,000. The election, as well as the nomination, was held at Bel-haven.

The clerk of the township was the returning officer. Open voting was the system. The voters would come forward one by one and declare whom they wished to vote for and from time to time the returning officer would give out the state of the poll, so everybody would know
the standing of the candidates.

So you will understand the excitement that would be kept up all day.

The election was held on the first Monday in January. There was generally good sleighing and it was easy for the voters to get out to vote, but occasionally it was either mud or roads frozen and rough.
There were very few buggies in those days and heavy wagons had to be used, which wasn't so good.

I experienced one election day when I was about 16 years of age.
There were two or three voters in Queensville, James Aylward was one, who owned property in the township, and I was sent with a team and democrat to bring them out to vote.

On the return trip the roads being extremely rough, one of the wheels collapsed and I had to borrow a heavy wagon to finish the trip. Having thus been delayed, I had to run the horses to get there before the poll closed. However, I made it all right but it was a rough ride.

Bribery in a small way was included in by some of the candidates and their friends. Also, it was thought necessary to have the old-time whiskey jug along when canvassing. Not so with my father, who was a total abstainer. Just here I wish to relate rather an amusing incident.

At one of the elections my father was defeated by a few votes.
As the next election drew near he went to see the then reeve. Father told him that his friends wished him to be a candidate and wished to know if he intended also to run again. He said, "I will let you know in a week or ten days."

When he came to see father he said, "No, he wouldn't be a candidate for the reason that the voters he bought last year for $2 wanted $5 this year and he couldn't stand that price." He also said, "I will support you," which he did.

Yours truly,
Wm. Marriott, Keswick.

YULETIDE GREETINGS

Heartiest greetings and best wishes
For your happiness at Christmas
And throughout the coming year.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Goal-A-Game Herbie is what the boys in North York are calling our old friend Herb. Cain these days as the pride of Newmarket leads the goal scorers in the N.H.L. at the weekend. On Friday, Herb, having played 18 games, had an 18-goal total, six in advance of his nearest rival, and appeared destined to set up a total, the largest in recent years, and perhaps even to beat the record set in 1929-30 by Cooney Weiland of 43 goals in 44 games. Herb, hasn't scored in every game, and is not likely to do so but his average is just that.

At 32, Herb is in his 11th year in professional company, and only once in all that time, with Montreal Maroons in the season of 1934-35, his second in professional hockey, has he reached a 20-goal season total. Last year you will recall that he told us one of his big ambitions was to again reach a 20-goal total. In your Christmas wishes this year don't forget Herbie. Ask Santa to stuff his stockings with counters, and keep your fingers crossed so that old man injury will stay away. Cain's team-mate, Bill Cowley, whose scoring average thrives on assists, is away out in front in that department and, again barring injury, should top the league scoring title. Cain, unless we miss our guess, will finish in the first ten N.H.L. scorers with ease.

Colborne Ames, better known to sport fans as plain "Doc" and noted for his cool-headed net-minding for the Newmarket Redmen juniors when they first came into hockey prominence, was returned for the third successive year as an alderman in the civic elections at Kirkland Lake. "Doc" polled some 2,059 votes to land in third place. While to all intents and purposes party and labor politics were left out of the election, Ames was the only member of the C.I.O. to be elected to office this year in the northern township.

Another Milroy has appeared on the hockey horizon. North York sport fans will remember with a warm glow the achievements of Harry ("Whammy") Milroy, who played at centre ice for both Markham and Sutton. Harry is now overseas but his younger brother, Ken, Milroy, is still in Canada, and a member of the armored corps. Ken is a candidate for the team from No. 3 C.A.C.T.R. Nick Bangay, another Highland Creek boy who was a stand-out performer for both Markham juniors and Newmarket B.T.C. Redmen, is now overseas, along with "Flash" McMaster, another member of last year's No. 23 team.

Bob Bangay, after a series of trials and tribulations, will be among the next group of officers to graduate from Brockville O.T.C. The smooth-skating Bangay always exhibited plenty of brains on the ice, and evidently possesses the same kind of grey matter for the army.

Bobby Lynn, net-minder for the championship Aurora ordnance team last winter, is now stationed at Peterboro camp with his sidekick, "Bunny" Glover. The boys may not see much ice action this winter, as with no ice available locally, the Iltlock city soldiers have withdrawn from competition.

Leut. "Hing" Caswell, besides performing for No. 2 District Depot in the net will again be with Brampton camp's team, and represented them at the meeting last week which saw the black heret boys draw up their schedule for the coming season.

Roy Collins, better known as "Mutt" to one and all, is now stationed with the C.N.R. at Menford and may play for either Collingwood or Menford in the intermediate series. Roy was honorably discharged from the army after serving over a year, because of an injury sustained on duty.

Nakina Smith, another member of that famous Sudbury Wolves junior team which gave Newmarket fans plenty of worries back in 1933, has joined Detroit Red Wings, and in his first few games has looked pretty good. Smith had a brief trial with New York Americans and since that time has toiled in the minor loops with a fair degree of success. He hails from Cache Bay, Ont., and is close to 30 years. He was acquired by Indianapolis, the Detroit farm team, when New Haven folded up. Leut. Lin. Bend, former member of the New York Rangers, now an officer in the C.A.C. is expected to play for No. 2 C.A.C.T.R. this winter in the local intermediate group. Bend hails from Poplar Point, Man., and this month reached his 21st birthday. He is a centre player and shoots left-handed, weighing around 165 pounds. He was a member of the Portage La Prairie team which a few years ago won the Memorial Cup.

Leut. Alan Kuntz, former Ranger defenceman, is also with the C.A.C. and he heads the roster of players on hand for No. 1 C.A.C.T.R. He did most of his amateur playing in the west and in the Ottawa valley league.

Dan Vandief, member of Aurora juniors in 1931, is again performing for the Petawawa Grenades in the Ottawa city senior circuit. Dan, who hails from Huntsville, was an uncanny stick-handler and dippy-doodler skater in junior ranks and since then has played for Midland, Gravenhurst and Sudbury. He packs a wicked shot too.

Paul West, former Bradford-Aurora lacrosse star of yesteryear, who for some years was a traffic officer on the Lakeshore beat, is now serving overseas as an officer with the R.C.A.F. and seeing action over Germany these days.

From overseas comes word that "Ace" Yake, former Aurora softball player, has been confined to hospital the past few months with a nose injury but is now back on the job again and ready for further action with the Royals to whom he is now attached.

"Cottie" Tribble, former Barrie baseball, lacrosse and hockey player who appeared briefly for Newmarket camp in the Newmarket town league is now stationed in Toronto at District Depot. Cottie was with the Queen's Yorks at Sussex, N.B., and at Niagara before being transferred.

Premier George Drew, now in England, took time out from his duties to visit Major Connie Smythe and his lads of the 30th battery and sent the following telegram to Maple Leaf Gardens: "Con. Smythe and I had dinner together last night. You can all relax. He has settled the Conservative party and I have fixed up everything for the Leafs." The message may come as a bit of surprise to many of the electorate who have pictured Mr. Drew as a bit high-hat and lacking a sense of humor.

Joe Tunney, tall Newmarket lad who guarded the twine cottage for Aurora juniors for two seasons in a capable manner, is performing in the nets this season for No. 1 I.T.S. (R.C.A.F.) in the Toronto Garrison league. While the R.C.A.F. has made it a general policy to withdraw its entries from all senior series throughout Canada, such entries as this, as well as intermediate O.H.A. competitors, are expected to be allowed to continue for the season. We believe the R.C.A.F. has made a general decision on hockey that will be appreciated by the sports fans, if not by the owners of many of the larger arenas.

Among the former Aurora players affected by the ruling are Billy Wilson, presently performing for the Toronto R.C.A.F. club, and Jimmy Lowe, who was scintillating for the Vancouver Sea Island Hawks, current leaders in Pacific coast senior hockey.

Reg. Perkin, former Markham high school and Pickering College athlete, was among Canadian airmen in Canada commissioned last week by the R.C.A.F.

Dutton Tertius, son of prexy "Red" Dutton of the N.H.L. and another former Pickering College athlete, is now serving with the Canadian navy. Young Dutton's two elder brothers, who enlisted with the air force, are listed as missing.

Markham Juniors have entered a team in the O.H.A., thereby robbing Charlie Rowntree of some experienced players for his Hill junior team. The local junior group will include Whitby, Marlborough, H.M.C.S. York, Markham and the Hill. Barrie was refused admission, but is likely to be grounded with Collingwood, Penetang and other northern teams.

Aurora Town League may be organized if sufficient teams can be secured. Ordnance Depot is all ready for action. Roy Middlebrook, it is said, might be able to drop in his ace again, with the three Preston brothers, Harvey Gibney, Bob Peters and "Duke" Dennis available for action. Harold Botham is studying rounding up a rural team strengthened by what-over civilian talent is loose in Aurora. Perhaps a Bradford or Newmarket team could be persuaded to fit into the picture.

It was suggested that the group try to get recognition from the Rural Hockey Association, but we understand that that loop has folded up for the duration. Another suggestion is a series of games of intermediate calibre, on purely local lines, and in a North York league between Bradford, Newmarket, Aurora, Markham, Sutton, Stouffville and Richmond Hill, a revival of the old trolley league idea. We think such a venture would prove popular with the fans, as long as none of the teams was allowed to import players. These are suggestions advanced to the writer in recent days by Aurora and Newmarket boys. Like Barks, the players and the rinks concerned "are willing."

The thoughts that lie deepest on Christmas
In the hearts and the souls of men—
Are of friends we like to remember
And the days we would live again.
Sweet memories pass to the forelight
Like a pageant of dreams come true,
And all thru the world "Merry Christmas"
Means someone is thinking of you.
As we strive for a fitting tribute,
Or thrill in a gift we receive—
Deep down in our hearts we are building
On truths we were born to believe.
Like the age-old spirit of giving,
First born with the wise men of old,
Whose gifts to a babe in a manger
Brought faith in the plan to unfold.
When the spirit of Christmas lingers,
And the greatest of gifts is ours,
When family and friends are united—
God speed us these Heavenly hours,
When sorrow and trouble have vanished
And malice forever departs—
The spark of it all is within us,
On Christmas, it glows in our hearts.
